

Mero Mound Group, Diamond Bluff

Photo courtesy of The Institute of Minnesota Archaeology

The Mero Mound Group is located on a large glacial outwash terrace above the mouth of the Trimble River. Archaeologists have often visited the site, looking for evidence of the people who lived on the large site and constructed the numerous mounds, some of which may have been built in the shape of sacred animals, such as birds and wolves.